* Important: RENTCafe is a nationwide platform through which property management firms, housing authorities and other similar firms can manage their accounts.

As it's a shared platform used by many, a given email address can be used only once to create an account, and the account is then specific to that email address, and it cannot be used to create another RENTCafe account.

If you should have an existing account with the DuPage & Kendall Housing Authorities, you will receive a pop-up message (as shown on the following page) after entering your email address indicating there is an existing account.

If this occurs, see the instructions on the following page as to the next step.

Note: If you've received a pop-up message like the one shown below after entering your email address during the registration process, there is an existing account in the RENTCafe system tied to this email address, and the pop-up message will identify the online community where your account exists.

If the pop-up message indicates that you have an account with the DuPage & Kendall Housing Authorities, go back to the Login page and request a password reset (if difficulties with the reset process arise, you can contact the DuPage & Kendall Housing Authorities for assistance)

* Important: If your account is with an online community other than the DuPage & Kendall Housing Authorities, you will have to either use a different email address to create your account or have the account with the other community deleted so that you can reuse that email address.
